PRESS RELEASE

European first for Pafos International Airport

The greatest achievement and satisfaction for a company is when its customers rank it first in the market. For Pafos International Airport this recognition and achievement came just one year after the start of operations.

In a poll held by the large airline Thomson Airways, their passengers ranked Pafos International Airport as first among the major airports of Europe. The poll concerned all airports in Thomson Airways network during the 2009 summer period. It is worth noting that Thomson Airways accounts for more than 25% of the passengers served at Pafos International Airport.

Specifically, Pafos International Airport attracted the highest percentage of positive votes and was chosen as the airport which leaves the most favourable impression on travellers and at the same time offers exceptional service to the travelling public.

This is the first time that an airport of the Cyprus Republic has occupied such an honoured position and has been awarded "Best Resort Airport in Europe" by the travelling public.

In a statement, the Chief Executive of Hermes Airports, Mr. Alfred van der Meer, expressed his satisfaction with this great distinction and congratulated the staff of Pafos Airport for their excellent work and high level of service to the travelling public.

The first attained by Pafos International Airport comes just one year after the start of operations and this proves not just its great potential but also the determination shown by Hermes Airports staff in carrying out their duties. For Pafos Airport this first award is not just an acknowledgement but it forms the benchmark for the future.
